UM TO HOST NATIONAL PHOTOJOURNALISM EXHIBIT

MISSOULA --

The University of Montana journalism school will host a national exhibit of sports photojournalism throughout most of February.

The traveling "Game Day USA" exhibit, which includes photos of college weekends taken by some of this country's most renowned photographers, will open Friday, Feb. 8. A reception will take place from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. that day in Room 303 of the Journalism Building, where the photos will be on display. The gallery hours will be 9 a.m.-noon and 1-4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

In 1989, 22 photographers took tens of thousands of black and white and color photos for the project, about 50 of which will appear in the exhibit. The photographers include National Geographic veterans Sam Abell and William Albert Allard; Bill Eppridge and Neil Leifer of Sports Illustrated; John Loengard, longtime photography director of Life magazine; and Pulitzer Prize winners Jim Richardson and Jay Dickman.

They depict activities at schools like the University of Notre Dame, The University of Michigan, Harvard University, the University of Oregon and the University of Washington.

Rich Clarkson, National Geographic's former photography director, organized and produced the exhibit. He lives in Denver, where he produces books and videos and organizes photography workshops.

The exhibit is funded by the Professional Photography Division of the Eastman Kodak Co. Many of the photos appear in a book published in September 1990.
